A letter about light, trust and collaboration

Letter of Recommendation · October 26, 2026

Dear DENKIRS team,

In my work, light is never a technical detail. It is the moment a space begins to breathe, the moment a house becomes home. I design interiors starting from how people want to feel in them, which is why I choose very carefully the partners I trust with the light in my projects. I am writing to you because working with you has proven to be one of the best choices I have made.

I would like to tell you the story of our collaboration as I lived it, step by step.

I. The first spark: discovery

It all began with a search. I needed a lighting system that was flexible, elegant and easy to adapt to my clients' way of living. In your range I found systems designed for different spaces and different needs, and I noticed right away that you do not simply sell luminaires. You offer scenarios for life: light for the morning as it begins, for the working afternoon, and for the evening as it softens.

II. The sketch: designing the light

During the concept stage, your tools became an extension of my studio. The online configurator helped me calculate components and fixture counts in minutes, and your 3D model library allowed me to place your products directly into my renders, so my clients could feel the light before it even existed.

III. The questions: a technical team that is always there

Every project comes with its own questions: compatibility, drivers, dimming, installation on ceilings that are already finished. Each time, I received prompt, clear and competent answers. You responded like a partner who understands that behind every question there is a client and a deadline. For a designer, that kind of reassurance is priceless.

IV. The choice: quality you can see and feel

From the SMART system that adapts to the way people actually live, to the ultra-slim AIR profile made for finished apartments, to the elegance of the SHINE finishes in black nickel and satin brass, your products passed the most important test of all: my client's eyes on handover day. Impeccable finishes, warm and accurate light, clean and simple installation.

V. The journey: fast deliveries to Romania

For me, this is the most important chapter. In interior projects, a single delayed parcel can stop an entire site. Your deliveries from the Ljubljana warehouse reached Romania quickly, complete and beautifully packed, exactly when I needed them. Thanks to you, I was able to keep every promise I made to my clients, and that has meant a great deal for the trust I build with them.

VI. The magic moment: the lights come on

There is a moment I love in every project: the first evening when the client switches on the lights and the space comes alive. With DENKIRS, that moment has always been exactly as I imagined it in the sketch, and sometimes even more beautiful.

VII. After handover: support that stays

Our collaboration did not end with the invoice. You remained available after installation, for adjustments, new lighting scenes or simple questions. That is the difference between a supplier and a partner.

VIII. What comes next: a collaboration that grows

Looking ahead, I would love for this collaboration to continue and deepen: new projects, samples and presentations for my clients, new lighting scenarios and, why not, an ever stronger presence of DENKIRS on the Romanian market. I am certain we still have many spaces to light together.

I wholeheartedly recommend DENKIRS to any designer, architect or developer looking for high-quality products, a reliable technical team and deliveries you can truly count on.

Thank you for your professionalism, your patience, and for the light you have brought into my projects.

With warmth and gratitude,

Alina Vieru
